Nebraska Wesleyan University

EDUC 505 Intercultural Communication for Educators

Catalog

2012-2013

Course Description

Intercultural Communication for Educators will introduce students to the cultural differences that influence the exchange of meaning between people of different cultural backgrounds. The study of what culture is, where culture comes from, and how culture manifests itself in every day life will be the heart of this course. A myriad of strategies and skills for successfully communicating across cultures in the classroom (as well as other contexts) will be explored and practiced.

Prerequisite(s): Bachelor's degree.

Course Hours

3 hours

Departments

1. Education