

PSYCH 245 Introduction to Clinical Psychology

3 hours

Departments/Programs:

Psychology

A survey of the assessment and treatment procedures utilized in clinical and counseling psychology, along with a discussion of professional issues in the field. Students are given rudimentary training in interviewing and case study of a nonclinical population.

Prerequisite(s): PSYCH-231.

(Normally offered each fall semester.)