THTRE 157 Acting III

Catalog

2011-2012

Course Description

This is an advanced course in acting that incorporates the technique and truth in acting skills from Acting II and aims to provide an intensive study of character analysis and presentation skills. Performance texts for class activities and exercises will be drawn primarily from turn-of-the-century playwrights such as Ibsen, Shaw, and Chekhov. Attention is also to be given to the process of preparing professional auditions. This course may be repeated once for credit.

Prerequisite(s): THTRE 002 Script Analysis, THTRE 007 Acting I, and THTRE 107 Acting II.

(Normally offered on even fall semesters.)
