Nebraska Wesleyan University

ANTHR 158 Cultures and Economics of Europe

Catalog

2012-2013

Course Description

This course is designed to examine Europe as a culture area. Specific emphasis will be on class systems, peasantry, contemporary life, and tradition and change. Although there are clearly differences among European cultures, they also share common roots in the feudal system. It will also study romance language formation and the drive for the contemporary European economic community.

(Normally offered alternate years.)

Course Hours

3 hours

Departments

1. Sociology and Anthropology