Nebraska Wesleyan University

HIST 5720 U.S. International Relations

Catalog

2015-2016

Course Description

This course is a graduate-level survey of U.S. international relations from the Revolutionary War piriod through contemporary U.S. involvement in Iraq, Afghanistan and the Unived Nations. Students will be introduced to the field of international relations, including its methodological debates, and discuss the history of U.S. relations with other cultures and nations, including diplomatic, military, economic and cultural encounters. Students will also be exposed to differing pedagogical approaches to teaching U.S. international relations in the classroom.

Course Hours

3 hours

Departments

1. Historical Studies (Graduate)