Nebraska Wesleyan University

PSYCH 3150 Behavioral Neuroscience

Catalog

2016-2017

Course Description

An introduction to neurophysiological bases of general behavior, sleep, perception, emotion, learning, cognition, and mental disorders. The relevance of these topics to applied problems in psychology will also be considered, as will the methods for investigating the relationship between brain and behavior.
Prerequisite(s): PSYCH 1010 Introduction to Psychological Science and BIO 1400FYW Introduction to Biological Inquiry or permission of the instructor.
(Normally offered each spring semester.)

Course Hours

4 hours

Departments

1. Psychology