

SOCWK 5100 Privilege And Oppression

3 hours

Departments/Programs:

Social Work (Graduate)

In this generalist practice course, students will increase their knowledge and awareness of experiences of people of oppressed populations in relation to forms and mechanisms of oppression and discrimination within the history of the United States. Students will gain insight into historical, political and cultural realities of perceived and genuine differences.