ART 3600 Advanced Ceramics

Catalog

2024-2025

Course Description

Students continue to study and develop advanced technical skills in both form and surface, but also work more diligently toward personal expression. We will study ceramics in a historical context in relationship to contemporary attitudes in clay - to provide context of our own work. Critical discourse of developing ideas as well as of the completed projects are crucial to the development of a personal identity of each student's work. Various levels (1-4) of this studio art medium may meet together. The course requirements of each level are different.
