Nebraska Wesleyan University

PSYCH 3930 Literature Spotlight: Mental and Physical Health

Catalog

2026-2027

Course Description

This course will use collaborative project-based learning to serve as a bridge between introductory and upper-level research courses by helping students develop skills in reading, understanding, analyzing, and discussing empirical research in the social sciences. This course will include readings from a focused area of resarch within psychology, with this course focusing on mental and physical health.

Prerequisite: PSYCH 2110 Research Methods in Psychology

Course Hours

2 hours

Departments

1. Psychology